

DANKO

Our mission is to transform, the public's concept of what furniture can be, by demonstrating a deeper understanding of beauty, using environmentally friendly materials, all within an affordable envelope. Ply-bending is the primary medium we are using to carry out this mission. Ply-bent furniture is a relatively new medium, whose aesthetics have been explored by a mere handful of designers. We are developing a new vocabulary for shapes, forms and techniques, using lamination layers as decorative elements. Ply-bent furniture is the perfect sustainable medium because veneer yields 8-10 times more sustainable wood from a log than solid lumber. Our furniture is made using non-toxic water based adhesives, and we use recycled material for seat suspension and padding. Our furniture is simple, sophisticated and unpretentious.
